

Pat Stewart

Customer Solutions Advisor

I started in this industry over 38 years ago and I have never looked back. Throughout the years I have seen the challenges plants face to maintain, upgrade, and evolve their operations with changing technologies and requirements. I've seen how finding a skilled and safety-minded contractor who will follow through can be difficult. My word means a lot to me, and that sentiment extends to the contractors we represent. We have a network of highly skilled and fully vetted contractors ready to bid for your job. I enjoy being the connector and seeing projects completed on-time and on-budget. Let me help you find your next contractor who is suited for the challenges facing your facility.
